

Simulate the experiment of coin tossing to prove the central limit theorem.

Consider a random variable X which takes 2 values 0 and 1 with equal probability. Generate 100 values of X and find the mean of the same. Is the calculated mean equal to actual mean?

Repeat the experiment multiple times and plot the appropriate graphs to prove the central limit theorem. Clearly label the axis.